For the New Era.
A Farewell Token.
Fare thee well, thou best and dearest,
Cherished love, adieu, fare thee well;
Though cold and distant thou appearest,
Thy praise o'er my song shall swell.
I'll sing thy praises, as of yore
I sang, but ah! each passing stain
Will breathe of pleasure gone before,
And hopes that ne'er may wake again.
How little dream'd I in the hour,
When life was cloudless, bright and gay,
A scowling tempest thou wouldst lower,
And sweep its every joy away.
I little dream'd, in bliss abiding,
On thy words so fondly spoken;
I little dream'd, in those caressing
Woman's vows, how swiftly broken.
But farewell, and adieu, and adieu,
Unheeded, lonely—on my road,
I must roam—but ah! I'm weary,
For life is now a galling load.

From Gleeson's Pictorial.
A Travelling Adventure.
BY FRANCIS A. DUNNICK.
"Glorious Rome!" exclaimed Miss Julia Brandon, as she leaned back in the travelling carriage, beside her gaily old guardian, Ebenezer Brown Esq., Alderman of London, as it slowly rolled upon its way from Teracini to Fondi, on the route to Naples—"shall I ever see the again?"
"Not with my consent," growled the old fellow. "Rome's a humping."
"What! St. Peter's?" cried the young lady.
"Can't hold a candle to St. Paul's," grunted the alderman.
"And the Coliseum?"
"Very much out of repair," replied the alderman.
"The canal?"
"None." "The illumination?"
"Stult!"
"The pictures?"
"Smoky drabs."
"The artists?"
"Pshaw! now I know what you're thinking of—that confounded Claude Crayton, who was always chattering about you. Do you know that he had the impudence to ask my permission to pay his addresses to you?"
"And what did you tell him?" inquired the young lady eagerly.
"I told him go to the—"
"Hush!" said the young lady, putting her soft hand upon her guardian's lips. "I'm ashamed of you."
"I'm ashamed of you!" retorted the alderman, "for thinking twice of a shabby fellow without a penny—you who are to come of age in three months and into the possession of fifty thousand pounds."
"The young lady was silent and looked out of the carriage window.
"What a dark gloomy valley this is we're passing through," she said, by way of changing the conversation. "It looks the very place for brigands. I wish you'd taken an escort."
"Pshaw!" said the alderman. "I don't believe in robbers. These stories of brigands are got up by the rascally, thieving Italian as an excuse for increasing the expense of travellers. But if you are to be robbed, I'd rather be plundered by fellows who make it a regular profession, than by rogues who pick your pockets under pretence of serving you. The cardinals always run at the first shot and come back after it was all over to conduct you back and ask for drink money. Hallo there! Pietro!"
Pietro was the courier, and was riding on the box with the coachman. On hearing his name called, he turned round promptly, and answered with his usual servile grin:
"Excellency!"
"Did you load my pistols?"
"Yes, your highness, and put them in the pockets of the carriage."
"All right then. Drive on!"
But at this moment there was a crash! and down came the carriage, nearly overturning in its fall. The coachman and courier sprang up lightly, and while the former saw to the horses, the latter extricated the inmates of the carriage, more frightened than hurt. The lunch pail had come out, and two of the wheels had rolled off—the harness was broken and there was no getting on till that had been patched up with ropes.
While the alderman was fussing and raving at the accident, Miss Julia pulled out her drawing-book, and was beginning to sketch the scene, when a shrill whistle was heard. The coachman and courier crying out, "the brigands, crossed themselves, and fell flat upon their faces."
Four armed men in the picturesque costume the stage has made us so familiar with, rushed from the bushes. Julia screamed. Her guardian succeeded in getting out one of his pistols, and fired at the foremost without hitting him. The robber knocked the alderman's pistol from his hand and his bat over his eyes, tripping him up, and tied him hand and foot with a bit of rope.
He then threw his arm around Miss Brandon waist, and followed by his companions buried into the wood that clothed the steep hill by the roadside.

Second reading on Monday next.

Mr. Ferris introduced a Bill entitled, "An Act to erect the Municipality of the village of Galt into that of a town."

Second reading this day week.

Mr. Darche introduced a Bill to allow officers of Agricultural Associations to pay the Government grant to the purchase of seed grain, without previous application to the Board of Agriculture, whenever they consider it expedient for the encouragement of Agriculture.

Hon. Mr. Drummond introduced a Bill to explain and amend the charter of the City Bank.

Mr. Biggs introduced a Bill to incorporate the Mount Pleasant Seminary Association.

Hon. Mr. Cameron introduced a Bill to amend the law abolishing the right of Primogeniture in Upper Canada. Also, a Bill to amend the law relating to the sale of lands for taxes in Upper Canada. Also, a Bill in relation to Foreign Insurances.

Hon. Mr. Cameron introduced a Bill entitled, "An Act to alter the constitution of the Legislative Council by rendering the same elective."

Solicitor General Smith moved for leave to introduce a Bill to extend the time allowed by the charter of the Hamilton and Port Dover Railway Company for the construction of said railway.

Mr. Crawford moved for leave to introduce a Bill to incorporate the Buffalo and Lake Huron Railway Company, and for other purposes.

Mr. Brown said he did not intend to offer any opposition to the first reading of the Bill, but there were very serious objections entertained to it on the part of private stockholders of the road, and he intended to ask the House at a future stage that those parties be heard by counsel against the principle of the Bill.

Hon. Mr. Merritt suggested that counsel might be heard by the Railroad Committee, instead of at the bar of the House.

Mr. Brown said he did not object to what was sought by the Bill, but it should not be carried out at the sacrifice of private interests. And when the rights of private parties were involved, he thought it better that they should be heard before the House.

The "ill was then read a first time."

Mr. Crawford moved that it be read a second time on Monday.

Mr. Brown said that the second reading should be put off at least for a fortnight. The gentleman, who had put in his position to be heard at the bar of the House, had $100,000 at stake, and he would stand that his counsel would require some time to prepare his brief.

Hon. Mr. Drummond did not see why it should not be read a second time on Monday, and referred to the Railroad Committee, and the discussion might come up on it, after it came back from the Committee.

Hon. Mr. Macdonald (Glengary), was afraid from his experience of the Railroad Committee, that private rights would not get much attention paid them there.

Mr. Crawford said he would change the day for the second reading to Thursday.

Mr. Brown again asking for a longer delay.

Hon. Mr. Cayley said that delay would defeat the object of the bill, and deprive the Company of the means of meeting their engagements.

After some further discussion, the motion for the second reading on Thursday was agreed to.

Mr. Evanturel moved for leave to introduce a Bill to place the Turpiko Roads in the vicinity of Quebec under the control of two separate Commissioners.

Mr. Brown said the roads in Lower Canada should be placed on the same footing as in Upper Canada, and not be supported by the Province.

After some further conversation, the Bill was ordered to a second reading on Monday.

Mr. Hartman moved to refer to the Committee appointed to inquire as to the best means of suppressing the vice of drunkenness all petitions presented to this House during this Session, praying for further legislation on that subject—Carried.

Mr. Bowes moved the second reading of his Bill to amend the Separate School Act.

After a short conversation, the mover, at the request of several members consented to postpone the order till Wednesday.

Hon. Mr. Cayley then moved, that the bill to amend the act establishing the freedom of banking, should be read a second time. The hon. member explained that the amendment was rendered necessary by the accidental omission from the face of the notes of certain words demanded by the act—the words "and not elsewhere."

Mr. Young also stated his opinion that the notes ought to express the place where they were payable.

Mr. Mackenzie said that in these cases the Government had been the party to blame, and they ought to be made to pay the paper.

The bill then passed through the second reading and was ordered to be read a third time on Monday.

SECOND READINGS.

The following bills were then read a second time, and referred to Committees:—

"Bill to amend Railway Clauses Consolidation Act." (Mr. Valois.)

"Bill to amend law of evidence in Upper Canada." (Hon. Mr. Cameron.)

"Bill to vest a certain road allowance in Messrs. Wade & Seymour." (Mr. Sidney Smith.)

"Bill to amend charter of Montreal Bank." (Mr. Holton.)

"Bill to enforce registration of titles in the townships of Lower Canada." (Mr. T. Fortier.)

ORDNANCE LANDS.

On motion of Hon. Mr. Cayley, The bill relative to claims on Ordnance Lands was read a second time, and passed through Committee.

This House then adjourned at half-past ten.

MONDAY 10th March, 1856.

The Speaker took the chair at three o'clock. About 75 petitions were presented—most of them praying for a Prohibitory Liquor Law.

Mr. Galt introduced a bill to correct an error in the act passed last session, to amend and extend the act incorporating the St. Lawrence and Champlain Railroad Company.

The standing orders of the House being suspended in regard to it, the bill was read a second time, and ordered to be read a third time this day week.

Hon. Mr. Cameron introduced a bill to amend and consolidate the acts of incorporation of the Commercial Bank of the Midland District.

Second reading on Wednesday next.

Hon. Mr. Cameron also introduced a bill to incorporate the Canadian Order of the Odd Fellows, in connection with the Manchester Unity.

Second reading on Wednesday next.

Sol. Gen. Smith introduced a bill to incorporate a Company under the name of the North Western Railway Company, to construct a railway from Galt to the waters of Lake Huron.

Second reading on Thursday next.

Mr. Jackson introduced a bill to incorporate the town of Sydenham, in the county of Grey.

Second reading on Monday next.

Mr. Sarnson introduced a bill to amend the law relating to Patents for Inventions.

Second reading on Thursday next.

Hon. Mr. Drummond introduced a bill to provide for the holding of an additional term of the Appeal Side of the Court of Queen's Bench for Lower Canada, in the present year. The hon. gentleman explained that this had been rendered necessary by the Judges being so much engaged with the Seigniorial questions.

Second reading to-morrow.

Mr. Chipman introduced a bill to amend the Lower Canada Municipal and Road Act of 1855.

Second reading on Monday next.

Mr. Aikins enquired of the Ministry whether it was their intention to enforce payment of the interest already due on Loans effected by municipalities from the Municipal Loan Fund.

Hon. Mr. Drummond said it was [Hear, hear], and he wished to say that in Upper Canada, the payments had been made very regularly.

On motion of Mr. Dorion [Montreal]. The House went again into committee on the mode of granting Patent Licenses.—Mr. Bellingham in the chair.

any obstacle in the way of a Prohibitory Liquor Law being enacted for Upper Canada.

If it was objected that that would be sectional legislation, he replied that that was the case now, there being one license law for Upper and another for Lower Canada. They legislated in that sectional way every day.

Mr. De Witt considered the House was going in the wrong direction, when it kept on licensing what caused more loss of life and misery, than war or pestilence. The resolutions now proposed were of no use in the world.

Mr. Felton moved that the words "in less quantities than three gallons," be struck out.

Mr. Mackenzie commented on the inconsistencies of the hon. member for Wolfe [Mr. Felton]. Last year that gentleman was for no liquor at all. Now he was for good liquor, and plenty of it. [Laughter.] He considered the state of this question as another illustration of the difficulty of legislating, while the present Union existed. He approved, however, of the proposition of the hon. member for North York [Mr. Hartman], and he could not suppose any difficulty would be thrown in the way, when it appeared from the vote of last week, that two-thirds of the Upper Canada members wanted the Maine Law for Upper Canada.

Mr. Masson.—But they shan't get it.

Mr. Mackenzie was sure that they would get it. It was calculated to raise mankind in the scale of existence, and it would be sure to come in the end.

Mr. Gough said he had no confidence in the license system, and opposed Mr. Felton's amendment.

Dr. Clarke considered the reason why the License Law had failed in Upper Canada, was, that it was in the hands of the municipalities. It would work better, if placed in the hands of the Government.

Mr. Gough said that, in Upper Canada, it had only been within the last five years that it had been in the hands of the municipalities.

Mr. Felton's amendment was then put and lost. An amendment by Mr. Powell to substitute 5 gallons for 3, as the quantity under which a license was required, was carried.

Hon. Mr. Cameron proposed an amendment, vesting the power of granting licenses, not in the Municipal Councils, but in License Inspectors appointed by the municipalities.

Atty. Gen. Macdonald was of opinion that License Inspectors should not be appointed directly or indirectly by the people, but that they should be officers receiving salaries and appointed by the Government.

Mr. Gamble would not admit that our present system had failed. The licenses under the old system were granted by the magistrates, who were not appointed by the popular voice. But he believed the system was much better now than then. He was in favor, however, of having the Inspectors appointed, not directly by the people, but by the municipal bodies, and he would also like a minimum rate fixed, below which licenses would not be granted.

Mr. Cameron's amendment was then put, and carried.

Some other amendments having been made, Mr. Hartman moved that any bill to be found on these resolutions be restricted in its operation to Lower Canada.

If they were carried, he would follow it up with the introduction of a Prohibitory Bill for Upper Canada.

TUESDAY, March 11, 1856.

A number of Petitions in favor of a Prohibitory liquor law, were presented from various parts of the country. Also, a petition from certain inhabitants of the County of York, praying for the repeal of the Separate School Act.

Time for receiving Private Bills, extended to the 11th of April, and the time for receiving reports on such bills.

Mr. Drummond rose and said, that the Government having taken into consideration the vote of the House last night, had come to the conclusion to throw themselves on the confidence of the House, and ask for an adjournment until next Thursday, that they might consult with the leaders of the Government; and also consult amongst themselves as to the course they ought to pursue. They would have been fully prepared to state to day what their determination was, had it not been that the Head of the Government was so unwell as to be confined to his bed. He considered that the duty which they owed to themselves, rendered this step necessary. He was also charged to inform the House, and he trusted that it would not be taken as an act of discourtesy, that the members of the Executive Council who were charged with the presentation of a certain Address to His Excellency, had not thought proper to present that Address, and that it was their intention to endeavour to procure a reversal of the resolution on which that Address was founded. He would therefore give notice that on Thursday next, he would move that the resolution to which he referred should be rescinded.

He then moved, that when the House adjourned, it should stand adjourned till Thursday next.

Mr. J. S. Macdonald thought the course pursued by the Government was a most extraordinary one. They professed to be in such a state of disruption, that they were compelled to ask for time to consider their course, and yet they were still going on with the business of the House to-day. The usual course was for them to adjourn at once.

Hon. John A. Macdonald said his hon. friend opposite had mistaken the course which the hon. Attorney General intended to pursue. The next motion of his hon. colleague would be to move that this House do now adjourn. They had of course taken into consideration the position in which they had been placed by the motion of the hon. and learned member for Toronto, and had come to the conclusion that if they could not command the majority of this House upon a question of vital importance as regard to the judiciary of the land they could not come down and occupy the humiliating position of attempting to carry on the Government of the country.

Mr. Dorion said it appeared to him that the position of the Government was altogether a singular and new one. They now asked time for consideration, but he thought the proper course would have been for the hon. gentlemen opposite when they found themselves in a position that they could not carry on the business of the country, to have asked for an adjournment; but not, at the same time, to throw out as a menace, that they intended to move when the House again assembled, that the resolution adopted last night should be rescinded. He did not think that was the proper course for the Administration to pursue.

Mr. J. S. Macdonald said he took it for granted by the remarks of the hon. Attorney General, that the business of the House would go on until the usual hour of adjournment this evening.

Hon. Mr. Drummond said.—I stated distinctly we would throw ourselves upon the indulgence of the House, by moving that when the House adjourned, it should stand adjourned until Thursday next. It was not our intention to proceed in any business until this motion was disposed of.

Mr. J. S. Macdonald admitted that he had misunderstood the hon. Attorney General in reference to the adjournment. But he did not think they could find a precedent in any Government for the position they now assumed.

Dr. Clarke considered that a more honorable upright position was never assumed than that taken by the Ministry this day.—It was well known that there were 28 or 30 members absent from the House last night when that vote was taken, and had all the members been present the result would have been different. It was a most vital question to stand for.

Mr. Hartman thought the course pursued by the Ministry, in proposing to test the vote of the preceding evening, at the next sitting of the House established a bad precedent. And if every question were to be tested twice over, there would be no such thing as proceeding with the business of the House.

Hon. Mr. Cayley in reply to the remarks of the hon. gentlemen opposite said he would put it to the good sense of the House whether they had not taken a more manly course by leaving their friends free and untrammelled to come down and take whatever course they pleased on Tuesday night.

After a few remarks from Mr. Stevenson and other hon. members to their having been absent when the vote was taken—the House on the motion of Mr. Attorney General Drummond adjourned to Thursday next.

THURSDAY, March 13th 1856.

About 50 Petitions were presented, thirty of them praying for a Prohibitory Liquor Law.

THE CORRIGAN MURDER.

Hon. Mr. Drummond then rose and said—Mr. Speaker, before I present to this House the motion which I now hold in my hand, I feel that I am about to do something which there are but few precedents for in this House. At the same time, Sir, I rise to do an act which I feel to be consistent with the duty which I owe to myself, and which I owe to my country. But I find that the course which I adopt is not unprecedented in other countries. In England, when a motion has been hastily carried through the House of Commons, the House has not hesitated to retract its vote, and to declare that it has been hurried into an inconsistent vote, and, upon future reflection, they were disposed to agree to that which they had refused before. Now, Sir, the character of this vote was such as to leave the Ministry of the day necessarily under the impression that they had lost the confidence of this House. (Hear, hear.)

The hon. gentleman went on at great length in the endeavor to prove the House would not be acting inconsistent in rescinding the vote of Tuesday.

Hon. Mr. Cameron.—I regret very much, Mr. Speaker, that the observations which the Attorney General has made to-night were not made on the occasion when I moved the address. (Hear, hear.) I feel Sir, that the difficulty in which the members of this House are placed, would have been avoided, if there had been any statement made by a member of the Government that they were prepared to offer to the people of this country an investigation into this matter, whether moved for by myself or any other independent member of this House, or whether it came from the Government themselves. And, when those observations are made now which have just been made by the Attorney General, we cannot but feel the greatest regret that those observations had not been made on a prior occasion. (Hear, hear.) Sir, I believe with the Attorney General that a considerable degree of courage is required in order to rescind a vote, where it has been wrongly given, but it is a courage which ought to be displayed if men feel themselves in the position which the Attorney General has stated.—And did I feel myself at this moment, as the individual who moved that address, in a position to say that I was wrong, I would come forward unhesitatingly and would be willing to take whatever obloquy might be heaped upon me, on the floor of this House or outside of this House, or whatever ridicule I might be exposed to, and would say honestly and conscientiously that I believed my course was wrong; and that I was prepared to reverse my vote. But, Mr. Speaker, I am not in a position to say that I believe my course was wrong, and I am not in a position to say that I can reverse my vote. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. Rankin was neither identified with the ministry nor with any factions on the opposite side of the House, but was at liberty freely to exercise his own judgement. The Attorney General had pleaded the mode proposed to be adopted by the hon. member for Toronto, and that it was one which had few or no precedents, but he (Mr. Rankin) was no respecter of precedents. He was willing to give every argument advanced its due attention, but he always decided according to his own judgement of the matter presented for consideration. He approved of the doctrine of popular sovereignty, as it was called on the other side of the lake. The argument of his hon. friend, the member for Toronto, on Monday, he regarded as a rational one, and he agreed to it. Any law pronouncing a judge to be above the power and control of the legislature, he considered a bad one, and ought to be repealed.

THE NEW ERA

Newmarket, Friday, March 21st, 1856.

General Summary.

We send out this day's impression on the day—Friday being a holiday. All business will probably be suspended Good Friday, in this place.

We direct attention to an Advertisement in this day's issue from Messrs. Brown & Co. of Toronto. As Grocers their establishment is one of the first in Toronto.

We understand Dr. Geikie will deliver a Lecture in the Temperance Hall, Aurora, on this (Friday) evening. Subject—The Medical Profession. No doubt it will be an exceedingly interesting one. Chair to be taken at 7 o'clock.

The Cadets of Temperance of Newmarket Section and the Juvenile Temperance Association of this place, held a public meeting in the Temperance Hall, Aurora, on Wednesday last, the 19th inst. The meeting was well attended and everything passed off harmoniously.

Rev. Mr. Ormiston, of Toronto, will deliver a Lecture in the Temperance Hall, Sharon, on Saturday evening, the 5th of April next. Chair to be taken at 7 o'clock. Subject—Temperance. It is useless to say anything in commendation of the oratorical powers of Mr. Ormiston, he is well known to the public in this part of the country.

His Excellency, Sir E. Head, has sent a Message to the Assembly, declaring he has no power to demand the "charge to the Jury," by Mr. Justice, Doyal, in the Corriane case; this fact, no one denied, but the question arises, had he the power to request an explanation? What can we expect else from our Government, when the conduct of an efficient party man is in question.

Our neighbor at Oakley Farm, S. Trent, Esq., supplied the Butchers of Toronto with four fat cattle for Easter; and although we did not see them, we hear they made the best meal extant in the market. This speaks well for our farmer. The animals were only three years old; yet they averaged over 11 cwt. apiece. We did not hear the amount Mr. Trent realized; but we learn he obtained the highest prices offered in this part of the country. Oakley Farm Stock is becoming quite noted, both for sheep and cattle, for their excellence.

Our friends at Aurora, in conjunction with the "Association for the Diffusion of Useful Knowledge," closed their proceedings for the season with a tea-party, last Friday evening. The feast furnished by the ladies of that locality, was of the most excellent description. Dr. Geikie occupied the chair, and speeches were delivered by Prof. Backland, Prof. Macfarlane, Rev. J. C. Wells, Rev. W. Willoughby, and Benj. Pearson, Esq. We have prepared a full report, but through the crowded state of our columns, and being obliged to issue one day earlier this week, we have been compelled to defer its publication until next week.

Lamb's Hotel.—It is a common thing for people going down the Northern Railroad from this part of the country, to enquire at what House they had better take rooms in;—to all such, we would say—go to "Lamb's Hotel," King Street, a few doors north of Bay Street. The Landlord is obliging, and his servants attentive; and as the premises have been thoroughly renovated, everything about the establishment presents a clean and tidy appearance. Toronto has long wanted a house of this character, and now we hope the people will appropriate the exertions being made by its proprietor, by bestowing an extensive patronage.

Married.—At the residence of the bride's father, Richmond Hill, on the 13th inst., by the Rev. Mr. Jones, Mr. J. P. Rupert, merchant of Rupertsville, to Miss Mary Arksey, daughter of Mr. George Arksey.

DR. J. W. KERMOTT'S
VEGETABLE
Pulmonary Balsam;
A Safe and Effective Cure for Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Bronchitis, Asthma, Incipient Consumption, &c.
THIS Medicine operates by producing a free and copious expectoration, and by imparting vigor to the absorbent vessels, changing them from a diseased to a healthy condition. Hundreds of cases might be recounted of persons who have been constrained to the grave by their medical attendants, and by the use of this valuable remedy are now in the enjoyment of perfect health.
Dose—One teaspoonful from 5 to six times per day, or oftener if the cough is severe.
Price 75 Cents per Bottle.
Prepared, wholesale and retail, at the Electric Medical Dispensary, Dundas Street, London, C. W.
LONDON, 15th September, 1855.

DR. J. W. KERMOTT.
DEAR Sir,—Being informed that you are preparing your Vegetable Pulmonary Balsam, in order that the public at large may appreciate its virtues, I cheerfully submit to you the following statement of facts:—I am a native of New York. In the Autumn of 1852 my oldest son was attacked with pain in the chest, shoulders and side, accompanied with a very severe cough. We used every means within our power, employed the most skillful physicians, and after their vain attempts, had recourse to some of the most popular nostrums for the cure of consumption, but all to no purpose. He gradually grew worse. In 1853 he became so feeble and emaciated as to be obliged to keep his bed, his feet and legs became swollen, purrified profusely at night, expectorated dark fetid corruption, had chills and fever alternately, in fact all who knew or saw him pronounced him in the last state of consumption, and advised that he should be put to rest. I sent for you, but without the slightest hope of receiving any benefit, still as you have flattered him with a hope, he commenced using your Balsam, and after taking some half dozen bottles, began slowly to recover, till in three months' time he was restored to perfect health. One year has elapsed since the cure was effected, and he is still hale and sound.
Ever grateful, I am, dear Sir,
Yours respectfully,
JAMES DICKINSON.

LIST OF J. W. KERMOTT'S MEDICINES,
NAME:—
Vegetable Pulmonary Balsam, a safe and certain cure for Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Bronchitis, Asthma, Spitting of Blood, &c.
Compound Extract of Willow, a positive cure for Ague, Chill Fever, and Bilious Disorders.
Fluid Extract of Sassaaparilla and Sillings, the best alternative for diseases arising from an impure state of the blood.
Vegetable Tonic Mixture, a mild yet powerful Tonic in all cases of Debility, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and Weakness of the Stomach.
Worm Cure, or Calvespan Indian Worm Killer, an unparalleled Destroyer of Worms.

Read the following from M. Anderson, Esq., Mayor of London:—
LONDON, Feb. 14, 1855.
To Dr. KERMOTT.
DEAR Sir,—Your Vegetable Tonic Mixture and Sassaaparilla Pills, have had a most salutary effect on me. I was for several years troubled with Dyspepsia, and Indigestion, during which time I tried many remedies, consulted the most popular physicians at home and abroad, but to no purpose. Two years since, I tried your Pills and Sassaaparilla, and in a few days all my troubles were removed; since which time I have enjoyed perfect health.
I would, therefore for the good of the community, cheerfully recommend your medicines as all they are represented to be.
I am, yours, &c.,
M. ANDERSON,
Mayor of London, C. W.
